To: All Parents in the world

Salute to you all dear parents.

Due to the fact that our learners have been occupied with academic work for the past two months, there is need for us as parents to pay attention to the moral values and ethics that have faded away in our societies. Morals refer to the prevailing standards of behavior that enable people to live cooperatively in groups. Let's not regret the pandemic, maybe it's God who wanted us to get back to our roots of raising our children as Godly families. We therefore, ask you to score the development of some moral values in the life styles of our child. In societies we have a number of acceptable values. The following are just a few examples to provoke you our dear parent. Think of others so that we may have a changed generation.

The following are some of the moral marks that you might stress among the many.

1. Godliness, this refers to living a fruitful, obedient Godly life.

- Does your child know how to pray?
- Does he/she know the norms and customs of your family religion?
- Does he or she know your religious denomination?
- Has he/she ever led the entire family in praise and worship, time of prayer ever since this lockdown started, If yes, how often?
- Does your child appreciate other people's religions/ beliefs?

2. Greeting

- Does your child really greet, if yes how often?
- Is he/she aware of greeting in your tribal language?
- At what intervals does he/she greet?
- Is he/ she aware of reasons why we should greet one another?

3. Culture

- Is your child able to express him/herself in your tribal language?
- Is your child able to prepare the local dish of your culture?
- Is your child able to dress in your cultural attire?
- Does your child know the norms and customs of your culture?

4. Morals in the presence of visitors

- Does he/ she welcome visitors home?
- Does your child greet visitors?
- Does your child observe the proper way to use gadgets at home in visitors' presence?
- How does your child conduct him/herself in the presence of visitors?
- Does your child excuse him/herself during adults' conversations?

5. Respect

- Does your child observe self-respect and respect for others?
- Does he/she observe respect of authority and property at home?
- Does he/she take on responsibilities without being instructed?
- Does he/she listen while being blamed or talked to?
- How does your child respond to criticism?
- Does he/she know how to interact with elders, if so how does he/she express him/herself during the interaction?

6. Etiquettes

- Does your child observe the proper dining etiquette?
- Does he/she know how to properly use the toilet/latrine?
- Does he or she seek permission when in need of anything, e.g while entering one's bedroom?
- Does he/she express appreciation for anything offered to him/her?
- Does your child know the golden words; the golden words are, sorry, please, May I, excuse me and thank you?

7. Self-control

- How does your child react towards challenging conditions?
- Is your child empathetic, sympathetic, honest, just, generous before others?
- Is your child positive towards work (domestic)?
- Does your child peacefully resolve conflicts?
- Is your child assertive?
- Is your child joyous enough towards learning?
- How often does your child revise and research on his/her own?
- As parents, how do you manage self-control between yourselves?
- Does he/she exhibit self-control via eating in his/her daily style?

8. Personal hygiene

- How often does your child bathe and brush teeth in a day?
- How often does your child wash and iron his/her clothes?
- Is your child (as an adolescent) aware of body changes and how to manage them?

➤ Does your child maintain orderliness in his/ her bedroom?

We greatly thank you our beloved parent because you have paid consideration to the above sighted values and really tried to impart them in our children. As a school, we are looking forward to receiving learners who are;

- Determined to work hard to improve their academic performance
- Disciplined in eating
- Happy, joyous and eager to learn
- Focused to learn and ready to concentrate.
- Living happy and positive
- Mindful of their health
- Respect for property, school routines and authority
- Obedient, loyal and trustworthy
- Healthy, smartly dressed according to the school culture

Stay home, keep safe.
